Supplementary Estimates At Ottawa Also Provide For C.N.R. Survey Peace River

SENATE COMMITTEE FAVORS INQUIRY ON PEACE RIVER RLY.

OTTAWA, June 26.—The feasibility of a projected railway from the Peace River to connect with the main line of the Canadian Pacific railway in order to pass "obstructive fields of anthracite or semi-anthracite coal" existing in northern Alberta and British Columbia, is the subject of the final report of the senate committee which has been investigating Canada's fuel supply.

The committee recommends that the Dominion fuel board be empowered to conduct a survey of the Peace River area with a view to reducing the freight rates, increasing the use of the coal in Canada, and educating the public to use Canadian coal.

While the difficulty of transportation of Alberta's coal to central Canada is not minimized, the committee, with an increased output and mining operations, the cost of production would be reduced.

Drury Says That Defeat of His Government Was Due To Effect of "Wets"

Lieutenant-Governor Call upon Hon. G. Howard Ferguson to Form Government Following Resignation of Premier Drury Which Will Take Effect July 16

TORONTO, June 26.—(Canadian Press)—The lieutenant-governor of Ontario this afternoon formally invited Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, leader of the Conservative party which was swept into power by a huge majority in the elections yesterday, to form the next government of the province.

The action was taken after Premier E. C. Drury, following a meeting of the cabinet, had tendered his resignation to the lieutenant-governor to take effect on July 16.

Mr. Drury attributed his defeat in the "wet" vote. The "wet" is the province, he believed, constituted a sufficiently strong element to elect a government, but a public man should accept it philosophically. He stated the personal satisfaction, he said, of looking back, recently, upon a clearly conducted government and a fair election campaign, all of which meant a clear conscience that was everything to a man of such a type.

Mr. Ferguson, in accepting the nomination, said he would be ready to assume the responsibility as soon as the position was vacated by Mr. Drury. He stated that he would be ready to take over the government as soon as the position was vacated by Mr. Drury.

U.E.O. In Second Place

The United Farmers will be the second largest group in the formation of the new government, the Liberals having followed them in the second place.

There will be four labor parties and one independent. The advance of the United Farmers to second place was due to the support of Hon. W. E. R. Harty, who is elected in the North West, John G. Leithbridge in West Middlesex, and John G. Leithbridge in West Middlesex.

Mr. Ferguson, in accepting the nomination, said he would be ready to assume the responsibility as soon as the position was vacated by Mr. Drury. He stated that he would be ready to take over the government as soon as the position was vacated by Mr. Drury.

Laces Were Never More Lovely

The Camera Records Some Lines of the Modes of the Moment

AT EVERYTHING SORT OF BLACK TAFETTA.

WITH LACE AND EMBROIDERY.

EVERY type of lovely lace is being used, from delicate Valenciennes, in the smartest of handkerchiefs, to the most sumptuous gold and silver and platinum lace, worn almost without exception over self-colored slips. And these slips must never be taken together as the gown itself, and thought out as the gown itself, and quite as much depends upon their perfection. When we turn from the metal lace, in a favorite material and a dinner gown of gold lace over a matching slip is a ravishing thing.

Metal Laces Beautiful.

Almond Frock.

We are not to think of these metal laces as anything like the heavy and somewhat stiff fabrics they once were. Whatever made the makers may have wrought it has been most effective, and gold and silver lace today is as soft and as fine as lace of silk. Platinum seems really another name for silver lace, since it is merely another tone of this effective material. It is fascinating to the woman with gray hair, and is one of the few metal lace frocks which we see worn over contrasting slips, since its glory over mauve or halotone is not to be resisted. Metallic laces are even seen in capes, usually of the lined sort, and

A black lace frock simply made and ably supported by a supply of slips and accessories might almost be capable of carrying a girl through a season. Certainly she might properly wear it afternoon and evening; for dinner, dance or theater. A slip of green, one of cloth of gold, another of the new Cleopatra blue which is fashing and perhaps one of black for the very sedate occasions. Let her add to this as many and as elaborate girdles as she can manage. Beaded ones are handsome, and a very new idea in Egyptian effects is a wide beaded sash in the colors which they used, showing such white and brown. The design may be seen in any Egyptian book of costumes, and comes down in front with a square plaque like effect.

Speaking of accessories, there is none which has a more prominent part than the sash. Fashion has decreed that it is to be tied at the front, somewhere between the left hip and the exact center. There seems to be no limit imposed as to its size, and we see huge knots of ribbon or soft materials with ends which reach the hem of the skirt.

The Bandeau.

Bandeaux have come in on the same high wave of fashion's favor as the lace frock. The debutantes are wearing wide bands of gold or silver cloth, two-toned with color, frequently repeated, and the same shade is carried in the slip worn under the lace. Irresistent slip are also seen, and the slippers may carry out the theme.

A decided rival of black lace frocks are those of toast and its kindred tones. There is something so delicious about a gown of safe old Paris. And it needed no word of hers to prove its Parisian origin. The upper portion was of chiffon tulle with a most intriguing neck line. This showed a corded roll of the tulle at the top of the bodice and again at the base of the throat, with a bit of the skirt's lace peering through. Venetian lace formed the lower part of this alluring creation, being placed against the tulle in rounded points.

When cleaning the keys of the piano, dip the cloth in a little milk and clean the keys gently. Then dry the keys with a clean, dry cloth to keep them from turning yellow.

Appointments of the Luncheon Table

DURING recent years the luncheon has been steadily gaining table may be simple or as elaborate as the hostess desires. Flowers share equal honors, almost, with stand first in favor, although a common formal dinner for entertaining, bination of flowers and fruit is often But while the latter meal is attended very effective. A centerpiece of silver, porcelain, and feminine guests alike, the former belongs almost exclusively to the petticoated half of the world. For it is at this hour that the matrons, debutantes and flappers gather around daintily appointed tables for a merry feast.

Lenses for the luncheon are determined by the formality or informality of the meal and come in a charming and wide variety. For a formal luncheon the table should be covered with a cloth exquisitely soft chamois cloth trimmed with lace and embroidery, until it shines. Then the correct or else it is laid with a luncheon set consisting of a centerpiece and equal distances around the table, a line to match. Sometimes at a less service plate being placed on each formal affair runners of linen and individual covers are arranged according to the inevitable rule—dinner or a warm Summer luncheon served at fresco, dainty numbers in pastel shades or more daring ones in vivid colors are quite the vogue. HELPFUL HINTS

The water glass is placed on a small doily at the point of the knife. Very often individual silver dishes filled with salt nuts are used, the correct place for them being at the top of the plate. If, however, the hostess prefers large nut dishes, they, together with the nut spoon, are passed by the waitress. Salt nuts and peppers are arranged on doilies between each two covers. Bon-bons and dishes are distributed where they look best.

Purchase a strong paper clip with perforations in handle part, put on a hook on the kitchen door and put the hand towel in the clamp. In this manner tapes are never needed, and towels are never torn, no matter how roughly used, as they are simply pulled out of the clamp and are very easily replaced.

Curtains and portieres, poles allow the hangings to slip easily if rubbed with hard soap. This is much better than greasing.

The odor of onions or fish may be removed from the frying pans by adding vinegar in them, washing in the usual manner.

If the machine needs a hint and there is no other, try sharpening it on the broken edge of a broken plate or saucer.

When stamps are stuck together, put a thin paper over them and run a hot iron quickly over them. This does not spoil the gum arabic.

To remove dust from raton furniture use a painter's brush.

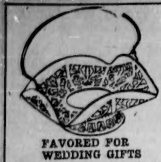

This odd little frock of Egyptian printed crepe has one of the popular bertha collars and flowing sleeves of plain material.

The Scrappag Fields

LIKE the Summer of other years, this Summer has championed the fabric bat and these dainty affairs are at the height of their charm when adorned with silk flowers. These flowers are of every expensive if bought at the shops, but they are not very difficult to copy if one is the least bit clever with her fingers, and bits of left-over silk supply the material. The flowers in the sketch are made of bits of tulle with a foundation of cord. The petals are sewn tightly to a round buckram foundation. The leaves are made of squares of green tulle, folded diagonally and then again, and the desired number arranged about the center flower. The tiny flowers or buds are made on the shoulder was just enough from round pieces of the silk gathered around the edge and fastened to long green stems, such as may be bought at any millinery store.

REDUCED RATES BY EXPRESS ON CREAM CANS

Appeal to Privy Council Results in Return to Rate Existing Before February, 1921

Reduced express rates on three-gallon cream cans will be available to farmers hereafter. On behalf of the dairy interests an appeal was recently made by Dr. A. W. Scott to the privy council from the decision of the railway commission regarding the reduction in express rates on cream. The appeal was granted by the privy council authorizing a reduction of 25 per cent. on the cream rate or, in effect, a return to the rate effective previous to February, 1921. While the decision of the railway commission was reversed, the three-gallon rate technically speaking was not included, since it had not been specifically mentioned in the application.

A. Chard, traffic and freight official for the provincial government, took this matter up with Chairman McLean of the railway commission, and which met here on Tuesday, and with C. E. Ham, traffic manager of the Express Traffic association, who agreed that the reduced rate apply also to the three-gallon can. This arrangement is subject to a minimum charge, however, of 15c under a 25-mile haul. This amounts to a rate of 23 1/2 per cent. of the rate on the five-gallon can on all mileage above the 25 miles.

The two new pools are to be constructed on the general lines of the pool at the South Side with some improvements including concrete floors in the dressing-rooms. The actual size of the pools and the location of the pools will be about the same as for the South Side pool.
